Lawyers Say Jail Is In Fact a Part Of Penitentiary

VITAL POINTS IN HABEAS CORPUS CASE

A petition for a writ of habeas corpus was this morning filed by Chun Hoon, a Chinese, who was a few days ago sentenced to a year's imprisonment by Judge Whitney for maintaining a che fa game. Chun Hoon's attorneys, Judge Gear and Judge Humphreys, set up a couple of very important points, one that the defendant was entitled to a jury trial, and the second one, which may become a very important one in its effects, namely, that the Honolulu jail is a matter of fact merely a part of the penitentiary, and that a misdemeanor prisoner can not lawfully be confined therein. It is understood that if the writ is denied here the matter will be taken before the United States Supreme Court.

The petition shows that the petitioner's imprisonment is void for the reason that the judgment, on which it is claimed that the mittimus was issued, is void, for the reason that the judgment does not designate any place where he shall be imprisoned and that the judgment of conviction was not based on a verdict of guilty by a jury. The petitioner, having been tried by the District Magistrate without a jury, contrary to the third article of the Constitution. It is also shown that his trial without a jury was not "due process of law" within the meaning of (Continued on Page 5)

To Add To Catholic Cathedral

Fred. Harrison, the well-known contractor, is about to build on the large corner lot adjoining the Catholic mission, on Beretania and Fort streets. Mr. Harrison declines, at the present time, to give any details of the plans of the new structure, but it is understood that the building will be auxiliary to the Catholic institution and that August Dreier, who desires to give a large amount of money for the benefit of the mission, is interested in the improvement. The cross-roads at this point will be complete in the matter of architecture with the realization of the building about to be erected; the Sachs building, the headquarters of the Fire Department, the Progress block and the proposed building occupying the four corners.

Suffering Japanese To Come

"There will be no lack of Japanese laborers for Hawaii plantations, if we want them," said a prominent sugar man this afternoon. "I have talked with men who have just come from Japan and they all report that the country is in a very serious condition as a result of the war. Japan will simply be compelled to take advantage of every opportunity to send families abroad and the Government, already less severe in its restraint of emigration, will soon encourage rather than endeavor to limit emigration. There is a great deal of suffering among the poorer classes. Families have been deprived of their main supports by war and there is no way to meet the situation except by emigration. Japanese immigration here will greatly increase, I think."

DOES NOT SPECULATE

Cornelius Doremus, head of the Germania Life, said he preferred bonds and mortgages, and gilt edged railroad bonds, as proper investments for an insurance company. He did not approve of speculative stock ventures. Of the $10,000,000 investments in securities held by the Germania Life, he said, about $5,000,000 was in the safest bond investments. The investments in bonds and mortgages amounted to $18,000,000. The real estate in its possession, he said, was worth $3,111,000. Never did the company hold any stocks other than bank stocks, and it had ceased to put its money even in those, having decided to hold no stocks at all.—The New York Evening Post, December 20, 1905.

It is reported that a great landslide has occurred at Onomea, wherein the railroad, store and part of the Government road was carried down into the gulch, and a Japanese badly injured. Brewer & Co. sent a wireless, making inquiries to Onomea at noon, but had at 3 p. m. received no reply.

The North American Dredging Co., through its local agent, Captain Connor, this afternoon filed a claim of ownership of the dredger Pacific, which was attached in the libel matter of the Pacific Mail S. S. Co., against it, asking the court to grant it a restitution of the dredger.

DIAMOND HEADS MAKE CLOSE SECOND

Votes, votes, votes. Then more votes. Such a shower of ballots has never been recorded during the second week of any newspaper contest held in this town and the Bulletin has had many successful ones. Usually it takes about three or four weeks for the people to get really started and interested. In this great Reb contest with its piano and sewing machine and photographic luxuries and the punchbowl "and all that," the excitement began with the first announcement. The Bulletin is popular in the first place. It has a large clientele on the other islands as well as in Honolulu, so the attention attracted by its plans to please the people and give them something good is territorial in its scope. They are all coming in. Every island in the group is represented by a leading candidate, while Honolulu and Oahu furnish a good list of lusty ones. Judge Noah Kepoikai of Wailuku has been entered as Maui's man to win the auto. Kauai has decided on Miss Sheldon, a school teacher, who, as one voter put it, has a long way to go to school and ought to have the auto. From all accounts Hawaii has selected the popular Admiral Beckley, third in the list today, to carry its honors, and there is no doubt that he can do it. Hawaii people know how to hustle. The outside islands is not the only country heard from. This man D. K. Watson of Wailanae came in with the first entries and he is in to stay. Within Honolulu the campaign is shaping up in warm style. The Diamond Heads and the Alumni Association of St. Louis College are doing great stunts, and the Elks are not in the slow class by any means. The Auto Club also has intentions and plans that will show it to be a vigorous individual. Of the individuals in the city Mrs. Dickerson has a host of friends who will cast a flood of votes though they may not be organized under a club name. There are other individuals who will be heard from. The lead today is still with the St. Louis College Alumni Association with the Diamond Heads a close second. Of course every one has his or her theory, of how frequently the ballots should be cast and whether it is the best policy to appear as a dark horse for a time. The contest shows a very widespread interest and no person or combination has a monopoly on popularity or the votes. The result of today's count follows:

Boyd And Bicknell Called To Appear Before Inquisition

FORMER OFFICER ASSISTS GRAND JURORS

The Territorial Grand Jury today prepared to start on a campaign against the Police Department by demanding the pay rolls of the Department for September, October, November and December of 1905 and for January, 1906. Attorney General Peters, who is attending to the Grand Jury, first sent to the Territorial Auditor's office for the needed documents, but was politely informed that the County Auditor was the man who had them. Besides this a couple of Hawaiian men were waiting in the hall outside the jury room, one of these being a woman, and several others, among them being another woman, will be called this afternoon. The Grand Jury is fairly reveling in the multitude of minor witnesses, which are being brought before them. All indications point to the fact that Keiki, a young Hawaiian formerly in the employ of the Police Department, is putting the inquisitors on the track of most of the witnesses. As a matter of fact, he is assisting Deputy Sheriff George Sea in locating them. In the meantime the Grand Jury are keeping themselves busy with examining the small fry. The big guns were probably found to be too uncommunicative, so now the inquisition is trying to get at the che-fa banks from the other end, namely, by calling before it the lowly players and small agents. A Japanese named Sumida and his wife were being examined this forenoon. They were investigated alternately, each being called several times.
